Human Rights Council
Forty-eighth session
13 September–1 October 2021
Agenda item 6
Universal periodic review

Report of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review*

Paraguay

* The annex is being circulated without formal editing, in the languages of submission only.

Introduction

1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review, established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1, held its thirty-eighth session from 3 to 14 May 2021. The review of Paraguay was held at the 6th meeting, on 5 May 2021. The delegation of Paraguay was headed by the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Euclides Acevedo. At its 10th meeting, held on 7 May 2021, the Working Group adopted the report on Paraguay.
2. On 12 January 2021, the Human Rights Council selected the following group of rapporteurs (troika) to facilitate the review of Paraguay: Germany, Namibia and Uruguay.
3. In accordance with paragraph 15 of the annex to Human Rights Council resolution 5/1 and paragraph 5 of the annex to Council resolution 16/21, the following documents were issued for the review of Paraguay:
 - (a) A national report submitted/written presentation made in accordance with paragraph 15 (a);¹
 - (b) A compilation prepared by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) in accordance with paragraph 15 (b);²
 - (c) A summary prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (c).³
4. A list of questions prepared in advance by Belgium, Canada, Germany, Panama, Portugal, on behalf of the Group of Friends on national mechanisms for implementation, reporting and follow-up, Slovenia, Spain, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and Uruguay was transmitted to Paraguay through the troika. These questions are available on the website of the universal periodic review.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. The head of the delegation stated that Paraguay was appearing in its third universal periodic review to reaffirm its commitment to the observance of human rights. The coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic had exposed inequalities in the provision of vaccines, which were a universal good. Paraguay wished to serve as a member of the Human Rights Council. All human rights in Paraguay were vital, important and inalienable.
6. The Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs referred to the main areas of the national report. For Paraguay, the universal periodic review was an exercise of peer evaluation, reflection and self-evaluation. He highlighted the role played by the recommendations monitoring system (SIMORE Plus) developed by Paraguay, and noted that the country's experience with the system had been shared through technical cooperation.
7. Progress made in the country between 2016 and 2020 had included a series of new laws, the ratification of international human rights treaties and the strengthening of the institutional framework. In 2016, a new Ombudsman and Deputy Ombudsman had been appointed, although the challenge of complying with the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (the Paris Principles) had persisted, as a constitutional amendment was needed.
8. Given the social and economic cost of corruption, Paraguay had adopted the National Integrity, Transparency and Anticorruption Plan for 2021–2025. Within the framework of the “100 points of Brasilia”, the judiciary had approved an access to justice policy for older persons and persons with disabilities, and a protocol for intercultural justice.

³ A/HRC/WG.6/38/PRY/3.

9. The National Plan on Preventing and Combating Trafficking in Persons, adopted in 2020, constituted a significant advance in the fight against trafficking in persons. Since 2018, more resources had been allocated to the national fund for prevention and for the provision of care for victims.

10. In order to reduce poverty, Paraguay was implementing the National Poverty Reduction Plan “Jajapo Paraguay” and the approach set out in the Social Protection System “Vamos!” The Integrated Strategy for Employment Formalization was in place to guarantee fair and favourable working conditions. In 2019, the Domestic Labour Act had been amended to bring the wages for domestic labour into line with the minimum wage.

11. Regarding maternal and infant mortality, the Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs referred to the Family Planning Programme, the Plan for the Accelerated Reduction of Maternal, Fetal and Neonatal Mortality and the National Sexual and Reproductive Health Plan 2019–2023. The National Education Plan 2024 was aimed at achieving improvements in access to and the quality of education.

12. The Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs highlighted the fourth National Equality Plan and the adoption of Act No. 5777/16 on the Comprehensive Protection of Women from All Forms of Violence. The National Policy on Children and Adolescents guided action by strengthening the National System for the Comprehensive Protection and Advancement of Children and Adolescents.

13. Paraguay had adopted the Indigenous Peoples National Plan and a protocol for consultation and free, prior and informed consent had been adopted in 2018.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

14. During the interactive dialogue, 79 delegations made statements. Recommendations made during the dialogue are to be found in section II of the present report.

15. Azerbaijan noted that Paraguay had strengthened its institutional framework for the promotion and protection of human rights, including through the establishment of a Sustainable Development Goals commission and the improvement of the judicial system.

16. The Bahamas commended the progress made by Paraguay in strengthening its legal framework to preserve the environment, through the ratification of the Paris Agreement, and to protect human life, through the adoption of the Comprehensive Act on Combating Trafficking in Persons.

17. Belarus noted that human rights mechanisms continued to point to a wide range of human rights concerns in Paraguay, including reports of torture, extrajudicial killings, arbitrary detention and enforced disappearance, and excessive pretrial detention.

18. Belgium welcomed the adoption by Paraguay of a national action plan for the protection of children from all forms of violence, but expressed concern about the increase in sexual violence against adolescent girls and the prevalence of child labour.

19. The Plurinational State of Bolivia congratulated Paraguay for the progress made regarding the national plan of consultation with indigenous peoples. It suggested that Paraguay end the wage gap between men and women, improve efforts to address the problem of overcrowding in prisons, reinforce mechanisms aimed at preventing violence against women and continue its efforts to support access by indigenous peoples to education.

20. Botswana noted with appreciation the harmonization of the National Human Rights Plan and the National Development Plan with the Sustainable Development Goals and commended Paraguay for the enactment of laws and policies aimed at protecting the environment.

21. Brazil commended progress made on access to justice for vulnerable groups, gender equality in the judicial, labour and political areas and policies to prevent trafficking in persons and combat corruption. It suggested that Paraguay increase the budget for the protection and promotion of the rights of indigenous peoples.

22. Bulgaria expressed appreciation for efforts to promote the rights of women and girls, address gender-based violence and strengthen the protection of the rights of the child and the rights of persons with disabilities. It encouraged Paraguay to ensure the effective implementation and monitoring of the National Human Rights Plan, including through the allocation of human, technical and financial resources.
23. Canada congratulated Paraguay on the development of the updated SIMORE Plus system, an open government platform for the monitoring of the implementation of international human rights recommendations linked to the Sustainable Development Goals.
24. Chile commended the efforts of Paraguay to strengthen institutions through the creation of the Ministry of the Environment and Sustainable Development and the ratification of the Paris Agreement. Chile recognized the will of Paraguay to provide technical cooperation through SIMORE Plus.
25. China noted with concern the high levels of poverty, especially among rural populations and indigenous peoples; education and health systems that were underdeveloped and reflected social inequalities; women and girls subjected to discrimination and violence; and organized crime and trafficking in persons.
26. Colombia recognized the country's strong commitment to human rights, and requested it to continue promoting SIMORE Plus. Colombia suggested that Paraguay advance in the implementation of the National Action Plan for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and commended Paraguay for action taken against domestic violence in the context of COVID-19.
27. Costa Rica recognized the important progress achieved in the use and implementation of SIMORE Plus, and praised the Government for action taken to make improvements in the areas of human rights and the environment, and for the protection of persons with disabilities.
28. Côte d'Ivoire congratulated Paraguay on the progress achieved in the area of human rights, especially regarding the ratification of the main human rights instruments.
29. Cuba acknowledged the efforts made by Paraguay in addressing identified human rights challenges, in particular efforts regarding poverty eradication and guaranteeing essential rights, such as the rights to food, health, education and adequate housing.
30. Czechia noted with appreciation that Paraguay had implemented several recommendations since the previous review, including in the areas of international criminal law and the rights of the child.
31. Denmark commended Paraguay for legislative action taken in 2019 on indigenous peoples' rights, while expressing concern about the implementation of indigenous peoples' rights, including the right to political participation and land rights, and about reports of increased levels of sexual and gender-based violence.
32. The Dominican Republic congratulated Paraguay for progress made in the implementation, and the monitoring of implementation, of accepted recommendations, and for its commitment to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development through SIMORE Plus, and highlighted the positive impact of the country's technical cooperation programme.
33. Ecuador recognized the progress made by Paraguay since the previous universal periodic review cycle, in particular regarding the SIMORE Plus system for implementing commitments and recommendations regarding human rights and the Sustainable Development Goals.
34. Fiji commended Paraguay for the action taken concerning climate change, including its ratification of the Paris Agreement and implementation of relevant domestic legislation and national action plans.
35. Finland expressed great appreciation for the engagement of Paraguay in the universal periodic review process.
36. France encouraged the Government to step up its efforts to respect human rights and fundamental freedoms.

37. Georgia expressed appreciation for the adoption of the Education Action Plan 2018–2023, in which the Government prioritized actions in accordance with the National Education Plan 2024, the National Development Plan: Paraguay 2030 and the Sustainable Development Goals.
38. Germany commended improvements in the areas of women’s and children rights but remained concerned about corruption, intimidation of and threats against journalists and human rights defenders, and domestic violence, despite legislative improvements.
39. Haiti welcomed the efforts made to improve access to education and the measures adopted by the country with a view to mitigating the negative effects of climate change.
40. Iceland acknowledged the efforts made in preparing the national report; it also noted the steps outlined in the report, and expressed hope for their continued implementation.
41. India noted the creation of the Sustainable Development Goals commission, as well as a number of initiatives undertaken to contribute to the realization of the economic, social and cultural rights of the people in Paraguay.
42. China made a point of order, stating that there was only one China in the world and Taiwan Province of China was an inalienable part of its territory. In its intervention, Haiti had used terminology that was in clear contravention of the Charter of the United Nations and General Assembly resolution 2758 (XXVI), in which the Assembly had resolved the issue of the representation of China to the United Nations. China noted that the terminology used by Haiti undermined the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China and was contrary to the principles of non-confrontation and non-politicization of the universal periodic review process. China requested the Vice-President of the Human Rights Council to ask Haiti to refrain from using such terminology and to include the point of order in the record. The Vice-President of the Council stated that the point of order made by China would be part of the record.
43. Indonesia welcomed the efforts made to combat trafficking in persons.
44. Iraq noted the national laws, other legislation and plans announced by Paraguay, which, if the country was committed to implementing them, would serve to improve human rights conditions in many areas.
45. Ireland expressed concern about the inadequate resourcing for the public prosecutor’s office and the Office of the Ombudsman. It underlined the need to comply with the Paris Principles.
46. Israel welcomed the Comprehensive Act on Combating Trafficking in Persons and the National Education Plan. It commended Paraguay for measures taken to improve the situation of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, while expressing concern for the possible implications of the declaration identifying municipalities as “pro-family”.
47. Italy welcomed the ratification of the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on a communications procedure and the adoption of the 2016 act aimed at, among other things, protecting children from physical punishment, and the 2018 act on the prevention of sexual violence and the care of sexually abused children and adolescents. It commended Paraguay for the criminalization of femicide and for efforts to counter trafficking in persons.
48. Japan welcomed the steps taken by Paraguay to give effect to human rights commitments and recommendations, especially additional measures taken in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.
49. Kyrgyzstan welcomed the progress made in Paraguay to advance the protection of the rights of vulnerable groups and the development and implementation of national plans concerning women, children and adolescents, and indigenous peoples.
50. The Lao People’s Democratic Republic welcomed efforts made in Paraguay to improve the living standards of its people and to improve access to and the quality of education, including for persons with disabilities.

51. Lebanon commended Paraguay for the power granted to the public prosecution service with regard to trafficking in persons in order to enable the service to combat the sexual exploitation of children and adolescents. It welcomed the adoption of the National Plan on Preventing and Combating Trafficking in Persons in 2020.
52. Malaysia welcomed the government plan entitled “Paraguay of the People” for 2018–2023, the National Poverty Reduction Plan and the National Plan for Children’s Comprehensive Health 2016–2021, and encouraged Paraguay to make further advancements in the areas of labour; combating slavery; education for children; and the welfare of persons with disabilities and indigenous communities.
53. Maldives welcomed the Recommendations Monitoring System (SIMORE), and its updated version, SIMORE Plus, which drew on a network of 167 focal points from executive, legislative and judicial institutions and autonomous agencies.
54. The Marshall Islands noted dramatic climate events experienced by Paraguay that had disproportionately affected indigenous peoples and women, and expressed concern about high rates of discrimination against indigenous peoples, particularly ongoing violations of their land rights.
55. Mauritius welcomed the establishment of a rehabilitation centre for women aimed at empowering women in Paraguay. It also noted the Family Planning Programme designed to reduce maternal, fetal and neonatal mortality.
56. Mexico welcomed the Act on the Comprehensive Protection of Women from All Forms of Violence, the National Plan on Preventing and Combating Trafficking in Persons, and the Act establishing the right to a pension for elderly people living in poverty.
57. Mongolia welcomed the Act on the Comprehensive Protection of Women from All Forms of Violence and the second National Plan to Combat Violence against Women (2015–2020), and efforts to revise normative, institutional and programme frameworks in line with the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. It encouraged Paraguay to strengthen the Office of the Ombudsman in line with the Paris Principles.
58. Montenegro welcomed SIMORE and SIMORE Plus. It expressed concern about the lack of a comprehensive anti-discrimination legal framework and the persistent discrimination against women, people of African descent, indigenous peoples, persons with disabilities, sex workers, lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons and persons living with HIV/AIDS.
59. Morocco noted the ratification of the Paris Agreement and the adoption of an act that prohibited the transformation and conversion of forest areas in the eastern region of the country.
60. Namibia acknowledged the country’s considerable progress in implementing the accepted recommendations and stated that it was impressed by the fact that Paraguay had a permanent national recommendation monitoring system, SIMORE Plus, which, inter alia, monitored the implementation of recommendations accepted during the universal periodic review process.
61. Nepal welcomed the Climate Change Act and the National Strategy for the Eradication of Child Labour and the Protection of Adolescent Labour 2019–2024. It expressed appreciation for the efforts made by Paraguay to combat trafficking in persons, and the country’s plans and policies to fight poverty.
62. The Netherlands encouraged Paraguay to continue efforts to improve gender equality, and to adopt the bill creating a mechanism for the protection of human rights defenders. It remained concerned about persistent impunity and the lack of comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation with a specific focus on vulnerable groups.
63. Nicaragua thanked Paraguay for introducing its national report and made recommendations.
64. The Niger welcomed the SIMORE monitoring system, and the National Development Plan of 2018, aimed at increasing the social protection of the population, and encouraged

Paraguay to continue implementing the National Poverty Reduction Plan “Jajapo Paraguay”, aimed at implementing policies of protection, economic integration and social cohesion.

65. Pakistan acknowledged the country’s efforts to combat discrimination and reform the justice system, and to improve the rights of women. Pakistan remained concerned at financial challenges faced in the Office of the Ombudsman and in combating discrimination, particularly against indigenous people and people of African descent.

66. Panama acknowledged the country’s international leadership in the area of national mechanisms for reporting on, implementation of and follow-up to human rights recommendations. It commended the contribution made by Paraguay to countries in all regions through the SIMORE Plus technical cooperation programme.

67. Peru acknowledged progress made by Paraguay, including the expansion of the Recommendations Monitoring System, now SIMORE Plus, which linked the follow-up of international human rights recommendations to the Sustainable Development Goals.

68. The Philippines commended Paraguay on the SIMORE monitoring system and noted positively the efforts made by the country in strengthening measures to protect the rights of vulnerable groups, including women, children and indigenous peoples.

69. Poland welcomed the country’s efforts regarding free access to health care and various health programmes; the National Action Plan for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities; and efforts aimed at combating corruption in the public sphere. It strongly advocated for further developments in the latter area.

70. Portugal commended Paraguay for putting in place the SIMORE Plus system and for the technical cooperation provided to other countries on the implementation of human rights recommendations.

71. The Republic of Korea welcomed the fourth National Equality Plan (2018–2024). It expressed appreciation for the country’s efforts to combat corruption and promote transparency and accountability, including through relevant institutional and policy reforms such as the National Integrity Plan 2021–2025.

72. Romania commended the country’s readiness to follow up on the fulfilment of its international human rights obligations, including through the SIMORE system. While appreciating the important steps taken to improve the human rights situation in Paraguay, Romania noted the persistence of significant challenges.

73. The Russian Federation noted that a number of human rights challenges remained in Paraguay and acknowledged the country’s openness to cooperating with the international community on human rights issues.

74. Rwanda highlighted the adoption of the National Education Plan 2024, containing actions to improve access to quality education, and the adoption of the Act on the Comprehensive Protection of Women from All Forms of Violence.

75. Senegal welcomed the voluntary commitments made by Paraguay and the efforts made to strengthen its normative, institutional and political framework for the protection of human rights with a view to improving the living conditions of the most vulnerable populations.

76. Serbia commended the country’s efforts to implement the recommendations from the previous universal periodic review cycle. It particularly welcomed measures adopted to strengthen the institutional framework, including increases in the number of governmental human rights agencies.

77. Singapore praised the efforts made by Paraguay to expand primary health care across the country, as well as several national programmes focused on vulnerable groups. Singapore also acknowledged efforts made to promote the rule of law and combat corruption within the judiciary.

78. Slovenia encouraged Paraguay to strengthen its efforts to reduce the level of violence against women in all settings. Slovenia remained concerned about reports of violence faced by human rights defenders and journalists, and called on Paraguay to establish a national protection mechanism.

79. Spain acknowledged a number of developments made and noted specific areas for further improvement, including reducing unwanted pregnancies among minors, providing quality water and sanitation services for all, and protecting the rights of indigenous peoples and human rights defenders.

80. The State of Palestine commended the efforts made by Paraguay since the previous universal periodic review cycle, including measures to combat discrimination and the introduction of literacy and vocational programmes for indigenous communities.

81. The Sudan welcomed the delegation of Paraguay and thanked it for presenting its national report.

82. Switzerland noted with satisfaction the criminalization of femicide, but remained concerned by the level of violence against women and girls. It expressed concern about the conditions of detention and the continued attacks and reprisals against human rights defenders, despite the improved recognition of such defenders.

83. Thailand encouraged Paraguay to advance in the effective implementation of the National Plan on Preventing and Combating Trafficking in Persons. While acknowledging efforts, Thailand also remained concerned about domestic and gender-based violence, which had increased during the pandemic.

84. Timor-Leste applauded Paraguay for introducing non-formal literacy and vocational programmes for indigenous communities, and for adopting the national adolescent health plan covering the period 2016–2021.

85. Trinidad and Tobago noted efforts made to address challenges in combating poverty and improving access to food, health care, education and housing, which focused on the most vulnerable groups. It also acknowledged that Paraguay was considering making the declaration provided for in article 14 of the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination.

86. Ukraine noted with appreciation the implementation of its recommendations regarding gender violence and trafficking in women, but highlighted that further efforts were needed. It expressed particular concern about a reported increase in domestic violence during the pandemic and the alarming number of femicides.

87. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland welcomed the adoption of Act No. 5777/16, aimed at eradicating all forms of violence against women and ensuring that women had access to health, education and justice. It encouraged Paraguay to protect human rights defenders.

88. The United States of America commended the progress made by Paraguay on disability rights and civil society engagement. It expressed concerns about systemic corruption, impunity and limitations on judicial independence.

89. Uruguay recognized the efforts made by Paraguay, including those relating to the performance of the SIMORE Plus system.

90. Uzbekistan commended Paraguay for the number of institutions, organizations and agencies working in the area of human rights, and noted the appointment of the Ombudsman and the Deputy Ombudsman.

91. The Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela expressed concern about the sustained and systematic direct and indirect violations of human rights in Paraguay, and about discrimination perpetrated against indigenous peoples, peasants, domestic workers, and lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons, despite measures adopted to implement recommendations accepted during the universal periodic review.

92. Argentina welcomed the delegation and thanked Paraguay for its collaboration with the mechanisms of the Human Rights Council.

93. Australia welcomed the country's efforts to improve its human rights framework, including through the Act on the Comprehensive Protection of Women from All Forms of Violence, but remained concerned about a range of human rights issues, including the lack of enforcement of the constitutional clause against discrimination.

94. Guyana welcomed the decision to implement a prison reform plan, and noted many initiatives introduced to improve detention conditions and the social reintegration of persons deprived of their liberty.

95. China made another point of order, noting that issues of a political, bilateral and territorial nature should be kept out of the deliberations of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review and that United Nations terminology should be used when referring to States. China reiterated that there was only one China in the world and that Taiwan Province of China was an inalienable part of its territory. The terminology used by Haiti was a violation of the Charter of the United Nations and General Assembly resolution 2758 (XXVI), in which the Assembly had resolved the issue of the representation of China to the United Nations. China reiterated its request that the Vice-President of the Human Rights Council refer to General Assembly resolution 2758 (XXVI).

96. The Deputy Permanent Representative of Paraguay and Chargé d'affaires a.i. introduced the Paraguayan delegation, highlighting the number of ministers and other high-ranking officials participating in the interactive dialogue.

97. China made another point of order, reiterating its request to the Vice-President of the Human Rights Council to expressly refer to General Assembly resolution 2758 (XXVI) regarding the issue of Taiwan Province of China and to state that the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review should follow United Nations terminology. The Vice-President of the Human Rights Council indicated that the point of order would be duly noted, including the reference to General Assembly resolution 2758 (XXVI) raised by China. The Vice-President of the Human Rights Council recalled that United Nations terminology should be used when referring to States and territories.

98. China reiterated again that General Assembly resolution 2758 (XXVI) should be mentioned.

99. The President of the Supreme Court of Paraguay stressed that in the past 20 years strategic guidelines had incorporated a human rights-based approach and cross-cutting and specific efforts had been made to ensure access to justice. In 2016, Paraguay began implementing electronic judicial procedures, and they were currently in use in approximately 70 per cent of the judicial districts. Agreement No. 1511/21 on the exceptional application of pretrial detention had had a very positive impact.

100. The Attorney General indicated that the areas of human rights and access to justice had been strengthened, and that more than 100 complaints offices were operational. Punishable acts against journalists would be investigated by the Specialized Human Rights Unit.

101. The Chief Public Defender highlighted the protocols for support for both lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons and women who had been victims of violence, and noted that specialized groups had been created to address the needs of sectors of greater vulnerability. She mentioned the mobile application and web platform "Defensores Paraguay" for the registration of torture cases, and reported on progress in access-to-justice indicators.

102. The Minister representing the High Court of Electoral Justice referred to the efforts and achievements made in terms of political participation of women, indigenous peoples, older persons and persons with disabilities, and reported on actions aimed at achieving higher levels of participation and representation. The Minister of Justice referred to the link between the National Human Rights Plan and the results-based planning system, and to the process of preparing the third action plan of the Human Rights Network. She mentioned actions aimed at restoring the Vice-Ministry of Justice and Human Rights, and about the drafting of an organic law to elevate it to the Ministry of Justice and Human Rights.

103. Regarding the prison system, the Minister of Justice referred to action taken to improve security and the health system, to the construction of three new penitentiary centres, and to the decrease in the number of adolescents deprived of liberty. She mentioned the reactivation of the search for missing persons who had been disappeared, the process to modify the Act on Access to Public Information, and the digitization of people's records.

104. The President of the Human Rights Commission of the Senate highlighted the strengthening of the human rights institutional framework. While the study of the bill for the protection of journalists and human rights defenders continued, their work had been declared of national interest. He also referred to the bill against all forms of discrimination, and to the establishment of protection mechanisms for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex persons in areas such as health and access to justice.

105. The Parliamentary Secretary of the Human Rights Commission of the Chamber of Deputies affirmed the continuation of efforts to address sensitive issues relating to the rights of girls, boys and adolescents, violence against women, democratic parity, trafficking in persons, indigenous peoples, journalists and human rights defenders, extreme poverty, and the right to land, among others. The State was committed to continuing to work with civil society to discuss and adapt legislation related to human rights.

106. The Minister of the Interior indicated that the protocol for the safety of journalists was in force, and that in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic migration controls had been adapted according to health and humanitarian criteria. Regarding peaceful demonstrations, he referred to the handbook on use of force and the process to review it to bring it more into line with human rights standards.

107. The Minister of Education and the Sciences highlighted the implementation of policies and programmes designed to promote equal opportunities. School classes were in progress, as were inclusive and free education projects, indigenous education initiatives, education initiatives for people in a confined environment, and continuing education courses. He also referred to the process for reforming the education system through the educational transformation project.

108. The Minister for Women referred to the implementation of the fourth National Equality Plan and relevant regulations concerning rural women, domestic work, maternity and breastfeeding, the minimum age of marriage, and protection against violence. She highlighted the inclusion of a budget for the prevention of and protection against trafficking in persons and for receiving complaints of trafficking, and referred to the offer of services in regional centres and the Ciudad Mujer centre and through Ciudad Mujer Móvil.

109. The Minister for Children and Adolescents highlighted the strengthening of the protection and promotion system, the elevation of the Secretariat for Children and Adolescents to a Ministry, and the prioritization of the strategy for the protection of children in early childhood and the programme for the protection of indigenous children. The State had an action plan to eradicate violence against children and adolescents, and campaigns to that end had been carried out.

110. The vice-minister responsible for, among other things, health surveillance, emphasized the commitment to gradually advance towards universal access and coverage. The maternal mortality ratio had decreased from 81.8 per 100,000 live births in 2015 to 67.3 per 100,000 live births in 2019. Regarding mental health, a technical commission had been formed to promote a proposal for a mental health bill. Regarding the strengthening of the integrated comprehensive health networks, the infrastructure in 300 family health units and regional, general, district and specialized hospitals had been improved.

111. The Minister of Labour, Employment and Social Security noted the increase in support for workers and employers in response to the COVID-19 pandemic and the strengthening of the Labour Affairs Support Service, including special protection for women. She highlighted the National Strategy for the Eradication of Child Labour and the Protection of Adolescent Labour, the installation of an office in the western region, the prioritization of support for indigenous communities, and the adoption of the second National Strategy for the Prevention of Forced Labour.

112. The Minister of Urbanization, Housing and Habitat referred to the prioritization of housing solutions for highly vulnerable sectors. Successive transformations had led to the current legal status of the Ministry. He noted the quantitative and qualitative housing deficit, and the completion of more than 6,600 homes, of which 20 per cent were for indigenous peoples. The national plan for urbanization, housing and habitat was being prepared.

113. The Executive Secretary, Head and General Coordinator of the Social Cabinet highlighted the establishment of the Social Protection System “Vamos!”, which was focused on providing support for children, adolescents, women, persons with disabilities and indigenous peoples through a human rights-based approach.

114. The Executive Secretary of the National Secretariat for the Human Rights of Persons with Disabilities reported on the conclusion of the development of indicators under the National Plan for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities in 2019. She also noted the incorporation of the variable “disability” in the control board for the planning-by-results system, which made it possible to monitor compliance with the Plan and linked the Plan to budget execution.

115. The President of the Paraguayan Indigenous Institute said that in order to guarantee the exercise of civil and political rights, members of indigenous communities were registered in the Civil Registry and the Permanent Civic Registry and provided with an indigenous card, an identity card, and training sessions on political and electoral matters. He highlighted the adoption of the protocol on consultation and free, prior and informed consent and the corresponding regulation, which was in process, as well as the launch of the Indigenous Peoples National Plan.

116. The Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs reiterated the country’s commitment to the universal periodic review process. He thanked the States for their interest in participating in the interactive dialogue and for their observations and recommendations, and assured that the recommendations would be thoroughly and seriously examined by Paraguay.

117. In conclusion, he highlighted that the multidimensional effects of the COVID-19 pandemic had exacerbated already large asymmetries; inequality within and between States had increased. Guaranteeing fair, equitable and universal access to vaccines must be a global priority. Paraguay participated in the universal periodic examination because the country believed in multilateralism, supported by actions guided by real solidarity and cooperation.

II. Conclusions and/or recommendations

118. The following recommendations will be examined by Paraguay, which will provide responses in due time, but no later than the forty-eighth session of the Human Rights Council.
